

A photograph of a two-story semi-detached house with a light-colored, textured exterior. The house has a small front porch with a dark door and a small window above it. To the right of the house is a glass-enclosed porch. In the foreground, there is a gravel garden area and a green lawn. A large white gas cylinder with the brand name 'CALOR' is visible on the lawn. The sky is blue with some clouds.

Offers in the region of £100,000

The charming coastal village of Garlieston is a picturesque, planned 18th-century harbour village, renowned for its maritime heritage and peaceful setting. Situated on the east coast of the scenic Machars Peninsula, it offers a tranquil lifestyle surrounded by natural beauty, while remaining within easy reach of local amenities and attractions. At the heart of the village lies Garlieston Harbour and Garlieston Bay, originally established as a fishing station in the 18th century and now home to a mix of working boats and leisure craft. The bay also played a significant role during the World War II as a testing site for the innovative Mulberry Harbours, with remains still visible along the shoreline.

Nearby, the beautiful Galloway House Gardens provide delightful woodland and coastal walks leading to the sandy shores of Rigg Bay, ideal for relaxing days by the sea.

The surrounding area offers a wealth of attractions, including the dramatic ruins of Cruggleton Castle, the historic Whithorn Priory and Whithorn Trust, and the charming harbour village of Isle of Whithorn. Other nearby highlights include Sorbie Tower, Bladnoch Distillery, and Wigtown, Scotland's National Book Town.

For outdoor enthusiasts, the area is perfect for coastal walks, cycling, and wildlife spotting, while the renowned Kirroughtree 7stanes mountain biking centre offers world-class trails just a short drive away.

Garlieston combines rich history, scenic landscapes, and a relaxed coastal atmosphere—making it an ideal setting for a permanent home or peaceful retreat.
