DESCRIPTION

A beautifully presented period home, formerly part of The Old Rectory, set in a peaceful position close to Holford's historic village church. Church End offers elegant, well-proportioned rooms, an abundance of character, traditional outbuildings and generous mature gardens. This is a rare opportunity to secure a special property in one of the Quantock Hills' most picturesque villages.

ACCOMMODATION

The property is approached through wrought iron gates opening onto a gravel driveway and parking area. A cobbled yard and a collection of traditional outbuildings provide excellent storage and studio space.

Inside, the spacious reception hall sets the tone for the home's period charm. The sitting room enjoys an open fireplace and decorative cornicing, while the dining room's inglenook and wood-burner create a warm and inviting atmosphere. The kitchen/breakfast room sits to the rear with access to the side courtyard.

Upstairs, the principal bedroom benefits from a dual aspect and a generous en-suite bathroom with shower. Two further bedrooms and a family bathroom complete the accommodation.

OUTSIDE

Wrought iron gates open to a gravelled driveway with parking for multiple vehicles. This leads through to a charming cobbled courtyard accompanied by traditional stone outbuildings, including a useful studio space and store.

The mature gardens lie predominantly to the front and side of the property and provide excellent privacy. Laid mainly to lawn, they feature natural hedging, established borders and a variety of trees.
