Enjoying countryside views across neighbouring fields is this deceptively sized property, set back from the road in Longdowns on the outskirts of Penryn. The property forms a six bedroomed house currently divided into three flats with gardens to the side

A six bedroomed house, currently arranged as three apartments with:- Three bathrooms | Three bedrooms | Three lounges | Three kitchens | Conservatory | Gardens and ample driveway parking

£450,000
Freehold

Property Introduction

Set back from the road and enjoying countryside views, this property was formerly a Bed and Breakfast establishment and currently comprises a three-bedroom maisonette, a two-bedroom ground floor flat with conservatory and a one-bedroom self-contained flat.

All apartments have their own access and two of the flats share the front garden space with the third apartment having its own outside space.

The current owner has updated and extended the property with a Certificate of Lawfulness and it could easily be reconfigured to become one house for an extended family, however it does offer scope to keep part of it or all of it as a letting opportunity if someone so wished, accessed via a sizeable driveway, there is ample parking to the front.

Location

Located on the outskirts of Penryn, Longdowns, provides easy access to the surrounding towns of Helston, Redruth and Falmouth and the local villages.

There is a convenience store close by and the Halfway House public house and the nearest local supermarket is just two and a half miles distant towards Penryn.

Buses run regularly on the main road with a bus stop just yards from the house with services to Helston, Falmouth and the Exeter University Penryn Campus approximately two miles distant.
