About The Property

Looking for a modern, deceptively spacious family home with flexible five-bedroom accommodation, strong energy credentials and easy access to both countryside and coast? This beautifully presented detached property in Beulah offers generous living space, thoughtful design throughout and excellent links to Cardigan Bay and the wider West Wales area.

This detached house is under 10 years old and offers a surprising amount of space, well-balanced accommodation and the flexibility to suit family living or multi-generational arrangements if required. Set within the rural village of Beulah, the property combines a practical layout with modern finishes and efficient heating systems, while remaining within easy driving distance of Cardigan, Newcastle Emlyn and the coastline of Cardigan Bay.

The property is approached off a main B road onto a gravelled driveway providing ample off-road parking for several vehicles. The driveway continues down the side of the house to the attached single garage, which benefits from power and lighting. A concrete path and ramp lead to the composite front door, creating level access into the house.

The entrance opens into a striking hallway with a vaulted ceiling and tiled flooring, setting the tone for the space and light found throughout the property. Stairs rise to the first floor with useful storage beneath, and doors lead off to the main ground floor rooms.

To the front of the house is a versatile room currently used as a home office but equally suited as a bedroom. The main living space is an open-plan lounge and dining area, finished with tiled flooring and centred around a wood-burning stove set on a slate hearth. Double patio doors open directly onto the rear garden, creating a natural link between inside and out.

The kitchen sits just off the dining area and is fitted with matching base units, slate window sills and generous work surfaces. A standout feature is the pair of Belfast sinks, complemented by space for a five-ring gas cooker and a walk-in pantry providing excellent storage. This is a practical, well-designed space that works well for everyday use as well as entertaining.

From the dining area, a door leads into a rear hall with access to the side of the property, the ground floor WC and a separate utility room. The utility is particularly well appointed, featuring a second Belfast-style sink, plumbing for a washing machine, and a substantial storage cupboard housing the underfloor heating manifolds and hot water cylinder. A further door opens out to the side garden.

Beyond this, an additional hall leads into the rear sitting room. This generous space works well as a second reception room, playroom or overflow living area, with double patio doors opening onto the side and rear garden. A ground floor shower room sits off this room, fitted with a walk-in shower, WC and vanity unit. Stairs rise from the sitting room to a first-floor room above.

The first floor of the main house comprises three double bedrooms, all fitted with built-in wardrobes with mirrored sliding doors. The principal bedroom benefits from its own en-suite shower room, while the remaining bedrooms are served by a newly installed family bathroom.

The additional first-floor room, accessed from the rear sitting room staircase, provides a generous open-plan space ideal as a further bedroom. There is also room for seating if desired, making it a flexible area for guests or extended family. Velux windows provide lovely countryside views across the surrounding landscape.

Throughout the property there are thoughtful design touches, including slate window sills, shutters to many of the main house windows, and underfloor heating to the ground floor powered by an air source heat pump, contributing to comfortable and efficient day-to-day living.

Externally:

Externally, the gardens lie to the rear and side of the property. A pathway leads past the garage, through a gate to the rear garden, which wraps around one side of the house. This space is enclosed by a combination of walling, fencing and mature hedging, offering privacy and security. Raised beds line the borders, and a small patio area provides space for seating and outdoor use.

This is a well-designed and flexible home that suits modern family life, with the added benefit of adaptable space that could support multi-generational living if needed, all within a well-connected West Wales location close to both countryside and coast.

This is a smart, adaptable home that offers space, efficiency and a strong location. Viewing is highly recommended to appreciate the layout, flexibility and overall feel of the property.
