Set within an unspoilt rural landscape in the hamlet of Danemoor Green, within the parish of Hardingham, Bird in Hand is a captivating Grade II listed former ale house, believed to date back to around 1700. It presents a rare opportunity to acquire a charming and bucolic country home, just 10 miles from Norwich and within easy reach of Wymondham railway station (approximately 5 miles), offering convenient connections for London commuters. The Norfolk and Norwich University Hospital is also within around 9 miles.

The property immediately impresses with its traditional brick and flint elevations, a timeless façade that reflects its historic origins while hinting at the warmth and personality found within.

Stepping inside, the atmosphere is both welcoming and authentic, with a wealth of original features that celebrate the building's past. Exposed beams, original fireplaces and charming architectural details run throughout, creating a home that feels both grounded in history and entirely comfortable for modern living.

The layout unfolds into a series of well-proportioned reception rooms, whether for quiet relaxation or larger gatherings with family and friends. These spaces flow naturally, providing a sense of balance between intimacy and openness.

At the heart of the home lies the kitchen/ breakfast room, a sociable and practical space designed for everyday living. Here, traditional character is thoughtfully paired with modern convenience, offering ample storage and workspace while retaining a sense of charm. There is also scope to extend this area (STPP), allowing further enhancement to suit individual requirements. It is a room that invites conversation, whether over a morning coffee or during more formal occasions.

Above all, we would describe the home as cosy, warm and characterful, a place full of charm that has been a joy to live in.

The first floor continues to impress, where the bedrooms are arranged to provide both comfort and versatility. Each room enjoys its own individual outlook, with many benefitting from views across the surrounding countryside, reinforcing the connection to the landscape beyond. The accommodation lends itself equally well to family life or hosting guests, with two shower rooms to the ground floor and one bathroom to the first floor, all thoughtfully upgraded within the last 18 months.

Outside, the grounds extend to approximately half an acre (STMS) and are a defining feature of the property. The gardens offer a pleasing mix of open lawns, mature planting and more secluded corners, creating spaces to relax, entertain or simply enjoy the peaceful setting. Established trees and borders provide texture and seasonal interest, while the overall layout ensures a high degree of privacy. A working well provides a practical and sustainable solution for garden irrigation, while a patio area enjoys a particularly favourable position, acting as a suntrap for both morning and evening sun.

The setting offers a genuine sense of escape, surrounded by open countryside, yet remains conveniently placed for access to nearby villages and amenities. This balance between seclusion and connectivity enhances the appeal, making it well suited to both permanent residence and weekend retreat.

Bird in Hand is a home of real substance and individuality, where history and lifestyle come together effortlessly. Its characterful presentation, combined with generous accommodation, attractive grounds and excellent connectivity, results in a property that is as practical as it is distinctive, offering an exceptional opportunity within the Norfolk landscape.
