Inverness Place

In the heart of Roath, one of Cardiff's most enduringly popular neighbourhoods, this handsome terraced house on Inverness Place offers a considered balance of character and comfort. Positioned along a peaceful residential street, it sits within easy reach of the independent cafés, restaurants and shops that define this vibrant part of the city.

From the moment you step through the door, the house reveals its quiet charm. Wooden floors run beneath high ceilings, period fireplaces anchor the principal rooms and light moves easily from front to back. The living room, with its cast iron fireplace and built in shelving, is a calm and inviting retreat. Beyond, the dining room looks out to the garden and provides an elegant setting for long lunches or relaxed evenings with friends.

The kitchen is arranged with practicality in mind, offering generous storage and direct access to the garden, while the ground floor bathroom is neatly appointed. Upstairs, two well proportioned bedrooms retain their original fireplaces and wooden floors, creating restful spaces that feel both characterful and serene.

The rear garden unfolds in tiers, with a lawn and gravelled area offering scope for outdoor dining and planting. To the front, a tiled forecourt and iron railings lend a pleasing sense of privacy and kerb appeal.

Roath is widely regarded as one of Cardiff's most desirable addresses. Roath Park and its celebrated lake are within walking distance, as are the green spaces of Waterloo Gardens. The area is well served by highly regarded local schools, including Marlborough Primary and Cardiff High School, subject to catchment. Excellent transport links connect you to Cardiff city centre, Cardiff University and the University Hospital of Wales, while nearby Albany Road and Wellfield Road provide a rich mix of independent retailers and everyday amenities. For those seeking a characterful terraced house in Roath, this is a home of warmth, substance and lasting appeal.
