The property

This is a notably spacious bungalow which has been improved by the current vendor to create a home with a strong balance of reception space, bedroom accommodation and outdoor living.

At the centre of the property is a generous sitting room, large enough to accommodate substantial furniture without feeling crowded. The proportions of the room are likely to appeal in particular to buyers moving from a larger house and wanting to retain a good sense of space.

A further reception room has been created to the rear, opening directly onto the garden. This addition has transformed what was previously a less useful part of the plot into an attractive everyday living space, equally suited to dining, entertaining or more informal use. A large roof lantern introduces plenty of daylight and glazed doors provide an easy connection with the patio and garden.

The kitchen has a clean, contemporary finish, with a good range of fitted cabinetry, solid timber work surfaces and integrated appliances. There is also room for a breakfast table towards the front of the property, giving the kitchen a useful informal dining area of its own.

Three bedrooms are arranged off the inner hall, including two comfortable doubles and a further single room. The principal bedroom is fitted with built-in wardrobes, providing useful storage without reducing the usable floor area.

The bathroom is well specified, with both a bath and separate shower enclosure, together with WC and a vanity unit incorporating the wash basin. Modern tiling gives the room a simple, well-finished appearance.

The south-facing rear garden is a further strength of the property. It has been arranged with a combination of lawn, paved seating areas and a more sheltered section, creating several places to sit and enjoy the garden at different times of day.

Parking is particularly good for a bungalow of this type. The driveway has been widened to accommodate several vehicles and continues to a single garage, providing additional storage or secure parking.
