Overall Description

This is a 1930's end-of-terraced house in a pleasant residential location close to local shops, schools and transport links. The property has two double bedrooms and a bathroom on the first floor while downstairs there is the entrance hall, large open-plan sitting/dining room with newly laid engineered wooden flooring, as well as the newly fitted kitchen. The property is part way through being modernised, so represents an ideal property for buyers that would like a project to create a modern home to their own tastes and needs (the sellers are even including the bathroom fittings and tiles which are stored in the garden studio). There may also be potential to convert the loft, or to add a rear or side extension, subject to the usual consents. The property has parking to the front and gates through to further parking to the side. The garden is a really good size (100' in length) and there is a substantial garden studio at the bottom of the garden with electric power and light which could make a home office, cinema room or gym. If you are looking for a property with lots of potential then viewing is highly recommended. We are holding an Open House on Saturday 3rd January from 10am until 11am. Please call to book an appointment.

Location

The property sits in the Hertfordshire town of Hoddesdon, close to the A10, and just a short walk from Rye House Station which has regular trains to London Liverpool Street (38 minutes), making it ideal location for young professionals who need to commute. The house is also only five minute's from The River Lea and New River each of which is served by its own footpath, so perfect for keen walkers, runners or cyclists. There is a good range of local shops within a short walk of the property and the town centre has supermarkets and other services, as well a bustling high street with a wide selection of shops, pubs and restaurants. There are excellent schools at all levels in the area including the Rye Park Nursery School, just a short walk away. Hoddesdon sits in the Lea Valley which is close to lakes and gravel pits offering leisure activities including fishing and sailing. The town is close to some beautiful Hertfordshire countryside including Broxbourne Woods which is the county's only National Nature Reserve.
