Ideal for those looking to put their own stamp on a home, the house combines period charm with practical living space and is offered with the significant advantage of no onward chain. The property benefits from a highly convenient location, placing you within easy reach of high-performing grammar schools, Southend Hospital, local shops and everyday amenities. Excellent transport links include regular bus services and straightforward access into central London, making it a practical choice for commuting families.

Internally, the home is well-proportioned throughout and retains attractive character features, including high ceilings that enhance the sense of space and light. The ground floor centres around a large bay-fronted lounge, perfect for relaxed family living, which flows into a practical open-plan kitchen-diner – an ideal hub for everyday meals and entertaining. Upstairs, the first floor provides two generous double bedrooms (one of which is also bay-fronted), a third bedroom, and a bathroom.

Outside, a low-maintenance rear garden offers a private and manageable outdoor space, ideal for those who prefer less upkeep while still enjoying the benefits of a garden. Whilst the property would benefit from some modernisation in places, it presents a genuine blank canvas with the potential to create a very special and individual family home. With its combination of character, practical layout, and sought-after location, this is a property well worth viewing.
