History

It is thought that the current buildings stand on the grounds of an early monastic settlement known as St. Mary's, which was said to be a small satellite of Glastonbury. Some of the original stonework and garden terraces are believed to still be in place. St. Mary's later became the site of High Wych School, which was first founded in Lyme Regis before relocating here in 1953. The school remained until the early 1980s, after which the buildings were converted into three residential apartments.

Access

The property is accessed via an impressive, tree-lined driveway stretching almost three-quarters of a mile, winding through mixed conifer and broadleaf woodland with rhododendron-filled borders. Flat 3, St. Mary's, retains charming period features characteristic of its era and enjoys a wonderful setting within Trinity Hill Forest, which is overseen by the Forestry Commission. The location provides a tranquil, woodland lifestyle while remaining conveniently close to the stunning seaside town of Lyme Regis and the historic market town of Axminster.
