Welcome Home

Arranged across three storeys, this well-proportioned 1970s terraced townhouse has a clear, understated confidence, defined by its warm brick façade, simple horizontal lines and generous windows typical of the era. The elevation has a pleasingly ordered feel, with large picture windows and restrained detailing that gently reference mid-century design.

The location is a real highlight. Hassocks Station is quite literally a stone's throw away, making this an excellent choice for commuters, while the village High Street, local amenities and access to the South Downs are all close at hand. A quietly convenient home with a subtle mid-century character in one of Mid Sussex's most connected settings.

Internally, the accommodation spreads over three floors and extends to an impressive 1,375 sq ft offering a huge degree of flexibility with up to five bedrooms or three reception rooms, depending upon how you use the space.

Upon entry on the ground floor you're welcomed by a generous hallway. The former integral garage has been converted and is now an incredibly versatile family room/home office.

Across the rear is stylish kitchen, defined by clean lines and a calm, contemporary palette. Gloss-white cabinetry is arranged in a practical U-shape, complemented by smooth grey worktops that provide both visual contrast and generous preparation space. A central peninsula creates a natural divide between cooking and dining, while also offering informal seating and additional storage. Integrated appliances and handle-less units keep the look uncluttered and functional, resulting in a space that feels both modern and well suited to everyday living and relaxed entertaining.

The ground floor also has the essential cloakroom.

On the first floor there is a generous sitting/dining room with large south facing window which floods the space with natural light. There is also a large (19ft) double bedroom with fitted wardrobes which overlooks the rear.

Stairs rise again to the second floor where we find three further double bedrooms each served by the modern family bathroom.

The home is presented in excellent order with neutral décor. There is gas fired central heating, uPVC double glazing throughout and access to an Ultrafast fibre broadband connection.

Stepping Outside

To the rear is a low maintenance courtyard garden with gated rear access. To the front is driveway parking for two cars side-by-side.
