

Set in an elevated position overlooking Loch Broom, this detached house enjoys a spectacular Highland setting. From the house, panoramic views stretch across the waters of the loch to the rugged hills beyond, creating a wonderful sense of space and connection with the landscape. Located in the small rural village of Ardcharnich, the property offers the rare combination of a peaceful countryside setting and a home that feels warm, comfortable and very much made for family life.

Inside, the accommodation is both versatile and welcoming, with a generous kitchen at its heart, alongside a lounge and separate sitting room, four bedrooms and three bathrooms. The ground-floor bedroom adds flexibility for family living or visiting guests, while the well-appointed kitchen provides a particularly lovely space for everyday life and entertaining. Outside, gardens extend to three sides of the house, with off-road parking adding to its practicality. Above all, it is the setting that captures the imagination: a cosy Highland home, sitting above Loch Broom with those ever-changing views laid out before it.

Directions: From Inverness: Take the A9 north, joining the A835 at the Tore Roundabout, sign-posted Ullapool. Follow the A835 west through Contin, Garve and Braemore towards Ullapool. Continue through Ardcharnich, where Broom View is accessed directly from the A835 to the right.

Approximately 50 miles from Inverness and 5 miles from Ullapool.
