The final freehold house at Parkhurst Mews, situated in the vibrant N7 area of Holloway, London, offers a rare opportunity within a charming residential enclave that combines traditional mews-style architecture with contemporary comforts. This exclusive development is tucked away from the main streets, featuring cobbled pathways and a tranquil atmosphere, while remaining close to the area's dynamic offerings. The homes here include a blend of renovated Victorian stables and modern townhouses, showcasing distinctive details such as brick façades, arched doorways, and vintage lanterns, lending the mews a unique character that feels both historic and stylishly urban.

Located in Holloway, Parkhurst Mews enjoys the best of North London's amenities. The area is known for its array of independent shops, diverse dining options, and local pubs, providing a friendly neighbourhood feel. Holloway Road, just a short walk away, is a bustling thoroughfare lined with restaurants, boutiques, and cafés, with notable spots such as Provisions Wine and Cheese Shop, Big Jo Bakery, and the historic Nags Head Market offering a taste of London's eclectic food and retail scene.

For green space, nearby parks including Whittington Park and Caledonian Park provide residents with beautiful outdoor areas for leisure and recreation. Additionally, Hampstead Heath and Highbury Fields, both easily accessible, offer expansive spaces ideal for picnics, jogging, and enjoying panoramic city views.
