LOCATION

Earlsdon is a residential area located to the south of Coventry city centre. Known for its leafy streets, characterful Victorian and Edwardian homes, and vibrant community atmosphere, it's considered a desirable place to live. The area has a mix of independent shops, cafes, restaurants and bars making it a popular destination for those seeking a more suburban yet lively environment. Earlsdon also has a large local community library.

This property is well-connected, with easy walking access to Coventry city centre, Coventry (main line) Railway Station which offers train services to destinations like Birmingham and London. The neighbourhood has a strong sense of local identity, with community events and a variety of social clubs and has easy access to Coventry and Warwick universities and Coventry Rugby Club.

For families, Earlsdon offers good schools and parks, with the nearby War Memorial Park, Spencer Park and Hearsall Common being key green spaces for outdoor activities. It's a blend of traditional and modern living, with a welcoming atmosphere that attracts both young professionals and families alike.
