A particular highlight is the provision of two private roof terraces, extending to approximately 224 sq ft in total and providing excellent private outdoor space. Residents also benefit from secure gated access, allocated parking and access to the beautifully maintained communal grounds, which feature expansive lawns and an attractive central ornamental fountain. Steeped in history, Campion House was originally constructed in 1856 as Thornbury House. Following its acquisition in 1911, the building became an important Jesuit college before being sensitively converted into luxury apartments in the early 21st century. The conversion has carefully preserved the building's historic character and architectural heritage while introducing the comforts and refinement of modern living.
