Property Description

This attractive mid-terrace period house is located in the heart of the picturesque village of Penpont, Thornhill.

The well-presented accommodation comprises a lounge/dining area, kitchen, two bedrooms and bathroom. A studio/workshop is located within the secluded, shared walled garden and cobbled yard to the rear. There are open views from all the windows - out to the garden, over to the Keir hills, Penpont Church and across open countryside.

Built between 1800-1850 and Grade C listed, the house holds lots of character and history - it was formerly a Public House, Temperance Hotel and convalescence hotel for soldiers during WW1.

Penpont is a charming village with a primary school, shop, park, community cafe and garden, and an active local development trust. There is a cycle/walking path which runs from the village to the nearby town of Thornhill, with its many amenities and Wallace Hall Academy. It is 14 miles south to Dumfries, and 12 miles north to Sanquhar, where there are train services. The property is ideally suited to first-time buyers, couples and/or young families seeking a village community lifestyle.
