Location

High Cross is an attractive rural hamlet set amidst the rolling countryside of south-west Leicestershire yet exceptionally well placed for access to the region's principal towns and transport links. The area lies approximately five miles north-west of the market town of Lutterworth and is conveniently situated for Hinckley, Rugby, Leicester and Coventry. High Cross is closely associated with the nearby village of Claybrooke Magna, an attractive and well-established Leicestershire village also surrounded by open countryside and a network of local footpaths. Village amenities include a popular public house, village hall, children's play area and village green, while Claybrooke Primary School is situated in neighbouring Claybrooke Parva and serves the surrounding villages. The nearby market town of Lutterworth provides a more comprehensive range of everyday amenities, including supermarkets, independent shops, cafés, restaurants, leisure facilities and schooling. The location is particularly convenient for commuters, with the A5 close at hand and easy access to the M1, M69, M6 and A14, providing excellent connections throughout the Midlands and beyond. For rail travel, Rugby and Leicester offer mainline services, including direct connections to London, making High Cross an excellent choice for those seeking the benefits of a peaceful countryside setting without compromising on accessibility.

Ground Floor

The property is accessed beneath a covered storm canopy, opening into a useful entrance porch which in turn, provides access to a convenient ground-floor cloakroom. From the moment you enter, the property is immediately striking, with a wealth of original character including exposed timber beams, original fireplaces, character doors, stained glass and traditional detailing complemented by carefully considered modern improvements. The accommodation centres around an impressive double-height dining room, featuring exposed beams and a stunning gallery landing above.
