The Outbuildings

Of particular note is the opportunity to utilise some of the outbuildings for alternative uses (subject to the necessary planning consents). The buildings were formerly used for agricultural purposes, although now lend themselves to a variety of alternative uses, including equestrian.

The buildings comprise the following:-

1. Blockwork with corrugated roof partially open fronted building used for garaging/workshop and housing a hot tub, with tiled floor and doors to the front to soak up the rural views.
2. Stone with corrugated roof part rendered and renovated traditional farm building with part loft over providing domestic storage.
3. Blockwork with corrugated roof former farrowing pens.
4. Blockwork and corrugated roof stable building currently utilised as a woodstore and workshop.
5. Blockwork with corrugated roof former animal pens with concreted yard outside, beyond which is access to the land.

The Land

East Coombe Farm extends to 45.50 acres, with the house and buildings situated centrally within the land, ensuring absolute privacy. The majority of the land comprises pasture, most recently used for livestock grazing purposes. The land runs into a valley with some woodland fringes, providing ample wood for your open fire or woodburner. Beyond the woodland fringe is a pretty stream boundary. The land is accessible off the main farm drive and some short sections of ancient cartways.

The land offers tremendous opportunities for farming/smallholding, amenity, equestrian use and for those with sporting interests.
