Property Summary

Propertyworld is delighted to present this charming one-bedroom, Art Deco-style purpose-built apartment at Dover House, a highly regarded 1930's development in Anerley, celebrated for its distinctive architecture and generously proportioned homes.

Our Vendor Loves...

I think one of the best things about this property is how spacious the living room is and the room's southerly orientation, meaning it gets great morning light, which isn't blocked out by buildings. I've also always liked how whichever way you look out from the flat, you really feel you have plenty of space around you. And when entering the building, I have always been impressed by its' lovely art deco design. The location really is great because aside from the very nearby station with trains into London Bridge in as little as 20 minutes, I like how it's easy walk to a number of high streets and it's also really handy to be able to walk to an ALDI in literally just two minutes
