The Property

Charity Farmhouse is a Grade II listed home of considerable character, believed to date back to the 15th century. The property retains a wealth of original features, including impressive exposed timbers and a notable crown post within the former open hall, reflecting its historic significance and craftsmanship.

The layout showcases the natural evolution of a period home, with gently irregular lines and a notable width of over 20 feet, an indicator of its quality and status. The accommodation blends these historic elements with modern living, including a well-appointed kitchen with integrated appliances and contemporary sanitary fittings.

A standout feature is the sitting room, rich in character with exposed wall and ceiling timbers, a herringbone brick floor, arched doorway and a substantial inglenook fireplace, creating a particularly inviting space during the winter months.

Outside

Set well back from a quiet country lane, the property enjoys a high degree of privacy and is largely screened from view. A shared driveway leads to a timber gate, opening onto a private drive which continues past the traditional front garden and on to a three-bay garage.

Additional outbuildings provide useful storage, while the gardens, extending to approximately 0.52 acres, are thoughtfully arranged into distinct areas. To the rear is a more enclosed garden space, while to the south lies a larger lawned garden with a shaded patio, pond and a tractor shed at the far end.

Beyond a hornbeam hedge is a productive kitchen garden, complete with a substantial polytunnel, well-suited to those seeking a more self-sufficient lifestyle.
