* VIDEO TOUR AVAILABLE * Dating back to the 1840s, this charming period cottage was originally built as part of a row of estate workers' cottages developed by industrialist Samuel Fox and combines character with timeless appeal. The accommodation begins with an entrance hall and staircase to the first floor, leading through to a cosy sitting room centred around a multifuel stove, perfect for relaxed evenings. The heart of the home is the kitchen diner, which flows through an archway into the delightful garden room, where French doors open directly onto the cottage garden, bringing the outside in. From here there is access to a practical cloakroom for coats and shoes and a separate WC. Upstairs are two well-proportioned bedrooms, with the main bedroom benefiting from fitted wardrobes, and a generous bathroom complete with both bath and shower. Outside, the property continues to impress with a pretty cottage garden and summer house, while gated rear access leads to a further garden area featuring a timber garage and open views across surrounding fields. To the front, the garden is lawned with various shrubs and flowers and gated access, providing the perfect cottage frontage and completing this beautifully balanced, character-filled home.
