About The Property

Looking for a deceptively spacious bungalow with far-reaching countryside views, generous parking and plenty of scope to add a personal touch? This three-bedroom detached home in Beulah offers generous accommodation, an integral garage and manageable gardens, with the Cardigan Bay coast, Newcastle Emlyn and Cardigan all within easy reach.

Set in the popular rural village of Beulah, this deceptively spacious three-bedroom detached bungalow enjoys stunning far-reaching countryside views to the front, together with an integral garage, ample off-road parking and gardens to both the front and rear.

The property would benefit from some modernisation and updating in places, providing an excellent opportunity for the next owners to gradually put their own stamp on the accommodation. The rooms are generously proportioned throughout and, with three bedrooms, separate living and dining spaces and useful ancillary areas, there is plenty of flexibility to work with.

A tarmac driveway provides ample off-road parking and leads to the integral garage. Alongside the driveway is an ornamental front garden, while the position of the bungalow allows the outlook to stretch across the surrounding West Wales countryside.

The front door opens into a central hallway which connects the principal rooms of the bungalow.

The living room is a particularly generous reception space, with plenty of room for a range of sofas and freestanding furniture. The windows bring in good natural light and allow the countryside setting to form part of the room.

Across the hallway is the kitchen, fitted with a range of wall and base units, work surfaces and space for appliances. The room offers a practical existing layout while also providing scope for someone looking to update the kitchen to their own style in the future.

Details Continued:

A separate dining room gives the bungalow another useful reception area, with ample space for a dining table and chairs. Depending on individual requirements, this room could equally work well as an additional sitting room, study or hobby room.

There are three well-proportioned double bedrooms, one with built-in storage. Their positioning away from the principal living areas gives this part of the bungalow a nicely defined feel.

The family bathroom is fitted with a bath, WC and wash hand basin.

A separate utility room adds valuable additional workspace and storage away from the kitchen, with access continuing through to the rear porch. From here there are connections to the rear garden and integral garage, together with a separate WC, making this a particularly practical everyday entrance for gardening, muddy boots and outdoor activities.

The integral garage provides secure parking or valuable storage and workshop space, while internal access adds to its practicality. Together with the tarmac driveway, there is ample off-road parking for several vehicles.

Externally:

Outside, the ornamental front garden complements the countryside outlook and creates an attractive approach to the bungalow.

To the rear, the garden is arranged with a patio area and a raised lawn beyond. At present the garden provides something of a blank canvas, leaving plenty of opportunity for new owners to introduce their own landscaping, planting, borders or seating areas over time. A useful detached storage shed provides additional room for garden equipment and tools.

The property benefits from oil-fired central heating.

For those looking for single-storey accommodation with generous room sizes, parking and a garage, while still having the opportunity to modernise and personalise a home over time, this bungalow has plenty to offer. Its position in Beulah also provides an appealing balance between countryside surroundings, access to the coast and proximity to nearby market towns.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE AREA:

Beulah is a rural village in Ceredigion, conveniently positioned between the market town of Newcastle Emlyn and the Cardigan Bay coast at Aberporth. The surrounding countryside is characterised by rolling farmland and smaller villages and hamlets, giving the area a distinctly rural feel while remaining well connected to everyday amenities.

The coastal village of Aberporth is within easy reach and is well known for its two sandy beaches, village facilities and access to the Ceredigion Coast Path. From Aberporth, a particularly popular stretch of coastal path runs towards neighbouring Tresaith, passing smaller coves along the way. Tresaith itself has a sandy beach, village pub and shop and is well known for its waterfall which drops from the cliffs beside the beach.

Inland, Cenarth is another nearby village, known for the River Teifi and Cenarth Falls, while Newcastle Emlyn provides a wider selection of shops, services and amenities. Newcastle Emlyn is an established market town serving the surrounding rural communities of the Teifi Valley, with a mixture of independent shops and everyday services.

The market town of Cardigan is also readily accessible, making Beulah a particularly useful base for those wanting to enjoy the countryside and coast while keeping a choice of towns and amenities within comfortable travelling distance.
