The Paddock

Set within a quiet residential cul-de-sac in Caerphilly, The Paddock is a thoughtfully designed family home of both space and elegance. From the outset, the property presents a balanced façade with its double-width driveway, storm porch, and landscaped approach. Inside, the layout has been planned with modern family life in mind, offering flowing reception rooms, generous sleeping accommodation, and a highly specified kitchen at its heart.

The open-plan kitchen and dining area, fitted with a comprehensive range of Neff appliances and a central island, provides the perfect setting for both daily living and entertaining. Bi-folding and French doors invite natural light while opening directly onto the garden, creating a seamless link between indoors and outdoors. The living and sitting rooms offer additional retreat, with flexibility to suit a growing household. Upstairs, five well-proportioned bedrooms are served by three bath and shower rooms, including two en suites and a luxurious principal suite complete with Juliet balcony and walk-in wardrobe.

The landscaped garden offers a private sanctuary with lawn, patio, and carefully planted borders, while the integral double garage with internal access enhances both storage and practicality.

Caerphilly itself is an historic market town renowned for its medieval castle, wide green spaces, and excellent connections to Cardiff. The Paddock lies within easy reach of local shops, independent cafés, and supermarkets, while families will appreciate proximity to well-regarded schools. The surrounding countryside provides numerous walking and cycling routes, with Caerphilly Mountain and the Ridgeway Path close by. Commuters benefit from quick access into Cardiff by train or car, with regular services from Caerphilly Station and straightforward road links via the A470 and M4. Together, these elements make the property not just a home but a place where convenience and quality of life come together.
