The village of Ambrosden is set approximately 3 miles southwest of the market town of Bicester.

The oldest part of the village consists of a few houses, including the Park Farm, a post office, a corn mill, a village hall (formerly a school) and the modern school.

The village also contains the church, the Parish Church of St. Mary the Virgin.

Most of the houses and cottages are built of coursed rubble, with many standing on the high road leading from Merton to Bicester, opposite the park, church, and vicarage. To the east of the village, near the parish church, are some 19th-century cottages made of stone, roofed with slates.

For commuters both Bicester North and Bicester Town stations are a short drive away with services to London Marylebone,, Oxford and Birmingham. Junction 9 of the M40 is close by and offers commuter access to London, the M25 and Birmingham.

The town is a historic market centre, but has shown major ambitions for growth through the development of the internationally recognised

Bicester Village Shopping Centre, the town centre redevelopment, and the Bicester Eco-town.

For shops and facilities Bicester offers a range of supermarkets, individual shops, doctors surgeries, opticians, a regular market, a cinema complex along with leisure facilities.,

For more extensive facilities Oxford, Aylesbury, and Banbury are all within reach.
