Location

Cloughton is a charming rural hamlet set in the heart of the sought-after Lune Valley, offering an ideal balance between peaceful country living and excellent connectivity. This is a location perfectly suited to those who value a quieter pace of life without feeling remote.

Gillerthwaite occupies a tucked-away position on Low Lane, a quiet cul-de-sac, creating a sense of privacy and community. At the end of the lane, a footpath leads directly along the banks of the River Lune, providing beautiful riverside walks to Hornby or Caton through the surrounding unspoilt countryside. For keen cyclists, the Millennium Way cycle track may be picked up from just outside Caton and leads to Lancaster and beyond.

Despite its tranquil setting, Cloughton is exceptionally well placed for work, schools, leisure and socialising. The popular market town of Kirkby Lonsdale and the historic city of Lancaster are both within easy reach, while M6 access is convenient at J34. Rail services are available nearby from Wennington (Morecambe to Leeds line) or Lancaster (main west coast line), together offering national connections. Cloughton itself benefits from a welcoming local pub, The Fenwick, within an easy stroll at the top of the lane along with a country store and garden centre just a short drive away. With everyday amenities and shopping, the neighbouring villages of Hornby and Caton make Cloughton a highly appealing base for modern rural living.

“ It's a quiet place to live, we've enjoyed being surrounded by the countryside, watching the seasons change. The next-door farmers have been great neighbours to us; incredibly helpful and their eggs are delicious!
