Angel House, Suffolk
Assington

Angel House, Further Street, Assington, Suffolk, CO10 5LD

Angel House is an attractively situated four bedroom detached unlisted period residence of traditional brick construction beneath a slate roofline, occupying a delightful position amidst open farmland on the periphery of the highly regarded Suffolk village of Assington. The property has undergone a comprehensive programme of extension and enhancement, resulting in a beautifully balanced home that seamlessly blends inherent period charm with modern convenience. Offering generous and versatile living accommodation, the house sits within established grounds extending to approximately 0.35 acres.

The accommodation is introduced via a pine entrance door with glazed panel, opening into a welcoming entrance hall that immediately showcases the home's character through exposed wall timbers and brickwork. This leads through to a dual aspect sitting room featuring stripped pine flooring, exposed ceiling timbers and a central fireplace with brick hearth and wood burning stove, creating a warm and inviting atmosphere. A rear hall, also finished with stripped pine flooring and incorporating a staircase to the first floor, provides a practical study recess ideal for home working.

A further dual aspect dining room offers an excellent formal entertaining space, complete with a brick fireplace, inset stove and UPVC double glazed sash window. Double doors open directly onto the rear terrace, creating a seamless transition between indoor and outdoor living. The open aspect fitted kitchen, forming part of the two storey side extension, is well-appointed with an extensive range of Shaker style units, wood effect work surfaces, tiled flooring and a ceramic sink. A stable door provides direct external access, while an adjoining utility room offers additional storage, WC facilities, LED spotlights and houses the oil-fired boiler.

The vaulted sitting room, also part of the extension, serves as the principal reception space and is particularly impressive. This triple aspect room is finished to an excellent standard and features oak ceiling struts and a central fireplace with wood-burning stove, enjoying far reaching views across the surrounding gardens and farmland.

To the first floor are four generously proportioned double bedrooms. The principal bedroom benefits from fitted wardrobes and an en-suite shower room, while the remaining bedrooms are served by a well-appointed family bathroom, making the property ideally suited to both family living and guest accommodation.

Externally, Angel House is set within an established and thoughtfully arranged plot. A pergola spans the rear elevation, constructed with oak struts and removable surrounding panelling, overlooking a terrace laid in an attractive herringbone brick pattern. The gardens provide an excellent setting for outdoor entertaining while enjoying the peaceful rural backdrop. Additional features include a solar array, a timber-framed outbuilding with light and power connected, and ample off-road parking for in excess of five vehicles.
