Tucked away towards the lower end of Barley Lane, this two-bedroom terraced home enjoys a quiet position while remaining just a short walk from the heart of Hastings Old Town. From here, the seafront is easily reached for morning walks, while the independent cafés, antique shops, galleries and restaurants of George Street are close at hand, making this an ideal base for those who enjoy the character and lifestyle of the Old Town.

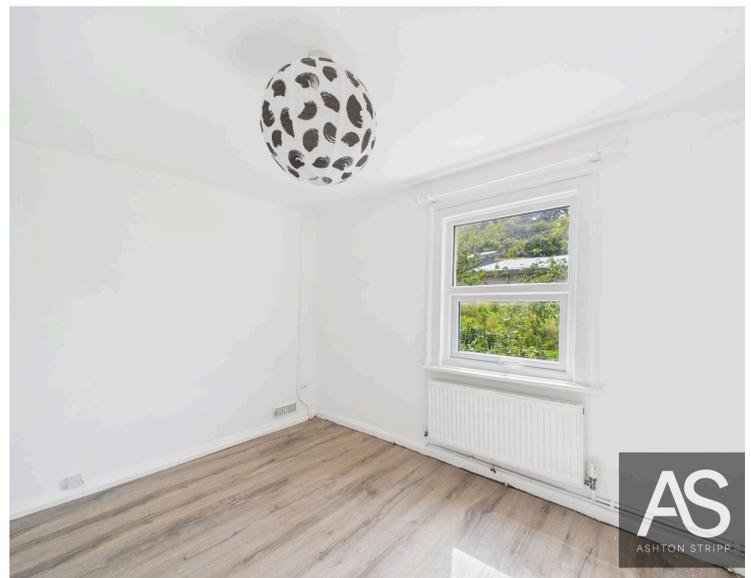

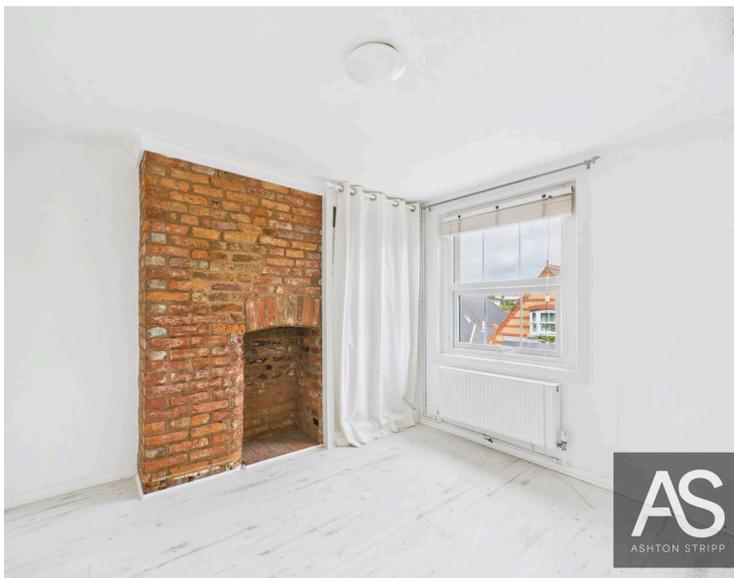

Behind its recently redecorated frontage and charming stable-style front door, the property offers a surprisingly private and low-maintenance home, with characterful details throughout and a sense of calm that belies its central location.

The ground floor accommodation begins with a compact living room, thoughtfully arranged to maximise the available space. An exposed brick fireplace provides an attractive focal point and adds warmth and character, while the laminate flooring keeps the room practical and easy to maintain. This space works well for a small sofa, occasional furniture and a cosy reading or relaxation area.

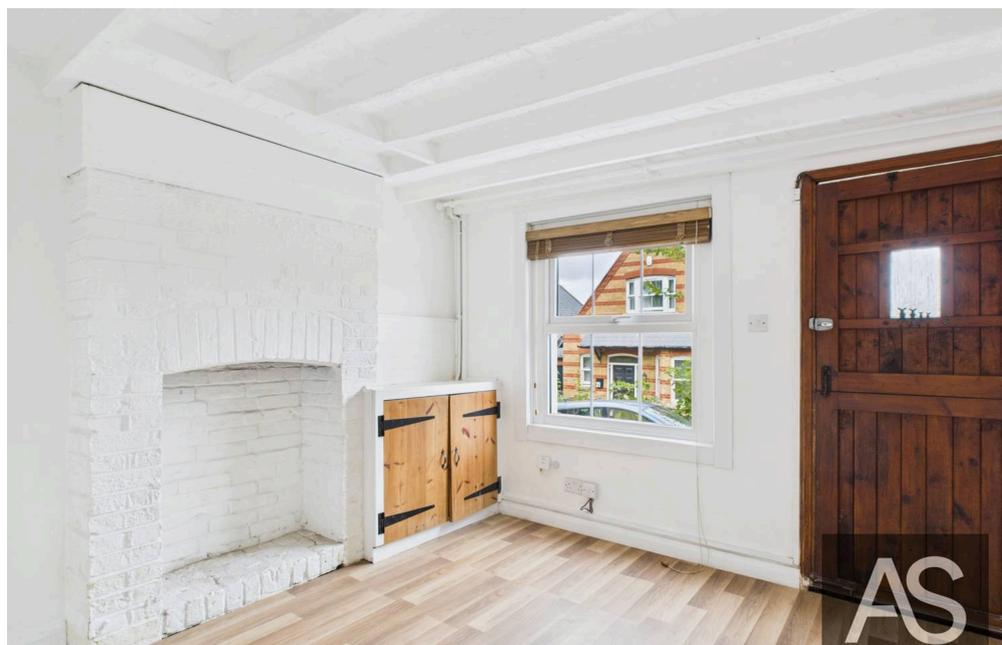

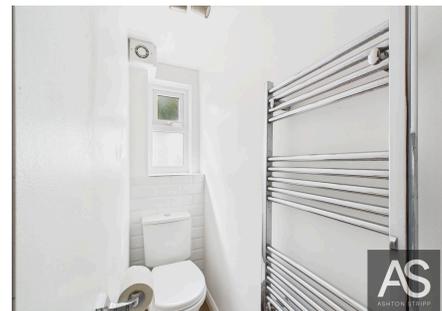

To the rear of the property, the kitchen offers a straightforward and functional layout. There is space for freestanding appliances and sufficient worktop area for everyday use, making it a practical setting for cooking and food preparation. A stable door opens directly onto the rear courtyard, creating a natural connection between indoor and outdoor space and allowing for fresh air and light. The courtyard itself provides a private outdoor retreat, ideal for enjoying a morning coffee, dining outside in warmer months, or growing potted plants and herbs.

Also on the ground floor is a WC with shower and window, adding a useful level of convenience for day-to-day living and for guests. The inclusion of a window allows for natural ventilation and light, enhancing the usability of the space.

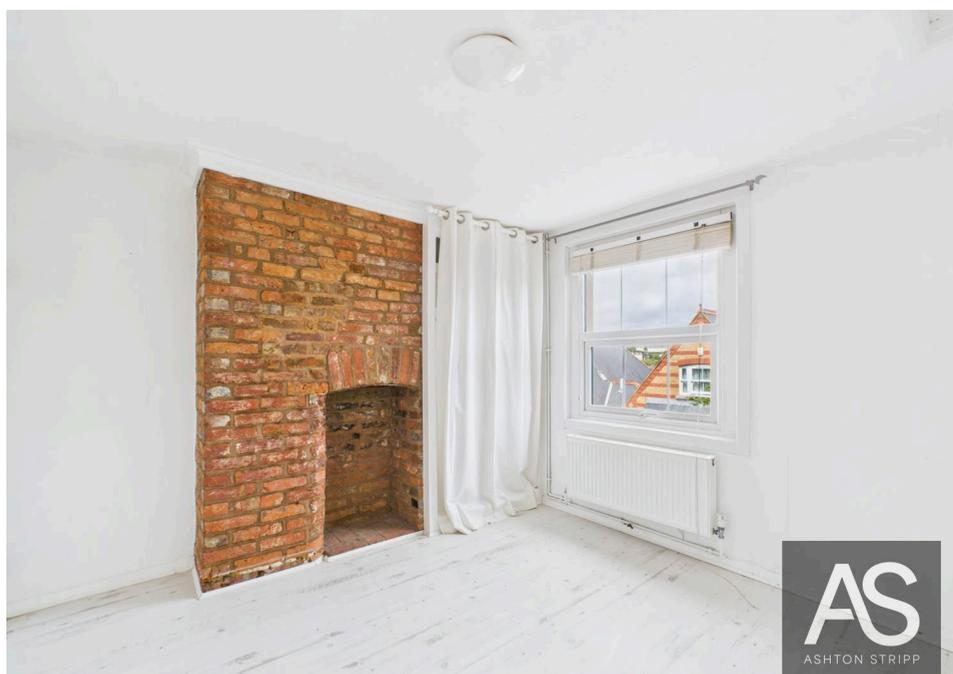

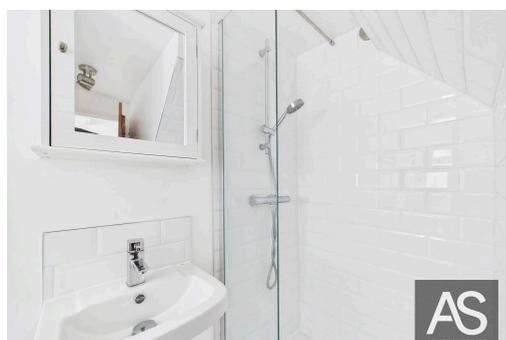

Upstairs, the property continues to deliver well-planned accommodation. The main bedroom is positioned at the front of the house and benefits from another original brick fireplace, reinforcing the home's period charm. There is space for wardrobes and additional storage, making this a comfortable and functional double bedroom. The second bedroom overlooks the rear of the property and, while slightly smaller, still offers flexibility in use. It would suit a guest bedroom, dressing room or home office, depending on individual needs.
