About The Property

Looking for a characterful four-bedroom home? Situated in the village of Velindre, near Llandysul and Newcastle Emlyn, in West Wales, this characterful four-bedroom detached home offers versatile accommodation arranged over several levels, with plenty of original features, two reception rooms, a traditional kitchen/diner and a garden extending down towards the stream. With exposed stone walls, timber beams, wooden floors and an interesting layout, this is a property with plenty of individuality, combining traditional features with the practicalities of family living.

The main entrance opens into the ground floor, where the accommodation includes two reception rooms and a fourth bedroom. The lounge provides a comfortable space for everyday living, while the separate sitting room offers additional flexibility, whether used as a more formal reception room, family room or somewhere to relax. Having two separate living spaces is particularly useful for families or households needing room for different activities.

Bedroom four is also situated on this level, offering a versatile space that could equally serve as a home office, hobby room or guest bedroom, depending on individual requirements.

Stairs lead down to the lower ground floor, where the kitchen/diner is a real feature of the home. With exposed stonework, exposed ceiling beams, traditional wooden kitchen units and natural timber flooring, this room has a warm, rustic feel. There is plenty of space for a family dining table, making it a practical room for everyday meals and entertaining. The kitchen includes a range-style cooker with a gas hob and electric oven, together with a fridge, dishwasher and other useful appliances. A pantry/storage area provides additional space for household essentials.

Details Continued:
The first floor is home to three further bedrooms, each offering its own character. Bedroom one is a comfortable double room, while bedroom three provides additional accommodation that could suit a child's bedroom, guest room or home office.

Bedroom two is particularly interesting, featuring an exposed stone wall, timber flooring, wooden ceiling beams and a mezzanine level accessed via an open wooden ladder-style staircase. Currently arranged as a bedroom with additional space above, the mezzanine provides useful flexibility for storage or other suitable uses, subject to the restricted headroom. This unusual feature adds another dimension to the accommodation and makes the room stand out.

Also on this floor is a dressing room, and the family bathroom, finished with white-painted timber panelling and natural wooden flooring. It features a freestanding roll-top-style bath with claw feet, a separate shower enclosure, pedestal wash basin and WC. The bathroom has a traditional feel that works well with the character of the property.

Externally:
Outside, the property has a small enclosed frontage with railings and a pedestrian gate, while the rear opens onto a gravelled and paved seating area, providing space for outdoor furniture and family activities.

Beyond the seating area, the garden extends downhill through mature trees, shrubs and established greenery, creating an attractive natural setting. The stream at the bottom of the garden is a particularly special feature, giving the grounds a lovely sense of connection with the surrounding countryside.

There is also a stone-built utility room within the rear garden, offering useful additional storage along with mains water, electric connection and drainage. A further shed is situated on neighbouring land, with a right of way providing access to it. There is also a separate WC accessible from outside the property.

The property benefits from oil-fired central heating and mains water, electricity and drainage. The range-style cooker, fridge, dishwasher, washing machine and tumble dryer are included in the sale, along with the wooden window blinds. On-street parking is available.

With its combination of character features, flexible accommodation and garden reaching towards the river, this is a beautiful family home with plenty to offer. Viewing is recommended to appreciate the layout, original details and outdoor space.
