Situated within the popular Snows area of Sandford, Tor House occupies a central village position with lovely south facing views towards Creedy Park. Built in 2009, it combines the practicality and efficiency of a modern home with room sizes and proportions that feel far more generous than many buyers might first expect.

Sandford continues to be one of Mid Devon's most sought after villages, helped by its strong community feel, popular pubs, village shop and regular bus links, all while remaining just a couple of miles from Crediton and within easy reach of Exeter.

The house itself is beautifully presented and offers excellent family accommodation throughout. A wide and welcoming entrance hall immediately gives a sense of space, while the useful downstairs WC is a practical addition for day-to-day life.

The living room is particularly impressive in size and the woodburner creates a lovely focal point for cosy evenings in. Running along the rear of the property is the kitchen/dining room, very much the hub of the home. Designed as a true kitchen diner, there's ample room for everyday family life and entertaining alike, while recent flooring and redecoration keep the feel fresh and modern. Doors open directly out to the rear garden where there's a wonderful alfresco dining space for the warmer months. A separate utility room is another welcome addition and adds practicality often missing from homes of this type.

Upstairs are three genuine double bedrooms along with the family bathroom. The principal bedroom benefits from its own modern en-suite shower room and, naturally, enjoys the lovely south facing outlook.

Outside, the front garden is another real feature. Lawned with a decked terrace and enjoying the sunny aspect and views, it provides an additional outdoor seating area rarely found with modern homes. To the rear is a more enclosed courtyard style garden with useful storage shed and the pergola seating area.

The property also benefits from off-road parking to the front, with additional public parking nearby if required.

Offered with no onward chain, Tor House is a modern village home with far more to offer than first expected.
