Tucked away in the heart of rural Norfolk, Wrampingham is a peaceful village steeped in pastoral charm and quiet history. Situated just a few miles south-west of Norwich, this small community is surrounded by gently rolling farmland, meandering country lanes, and the timeless tranquillity that defines the East Anglian countryside.

Wrampingham lies close to the River Tiffey, offering scenic walks along its banks and through nearby woodland and meadows. The village itself is made up of a scattering of traditional cottages and farmhouses, with a sense of seclusion that makes it ideal for those seeking respite from the bustle of modern life.
