Property Description

A characterful former place of worship with development potential
Approx. 3000 sq ft GIA

Occupying a prominent position within the popular North Yorkshire village of Ulleskelf, this attractive former Methodist Church offers a rare opportunity to acquire a substantial and characterful property with excellent potential for a variety of alternative uses, subject to the necessary consents.

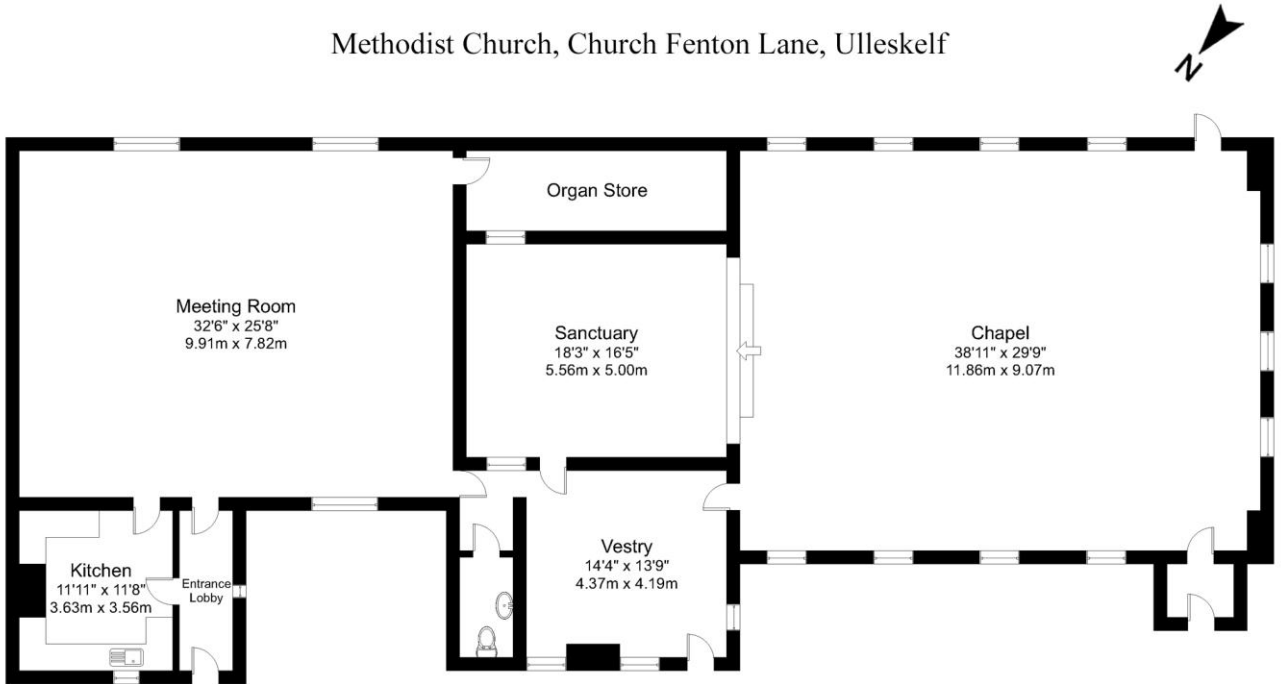

The building, now redundant as a place of worship, extends to approximately 3000 sq ft and retains many period features typical of its original ecclesiastical use, including arched windows, high ceilings and stone detailing.

The property sits on Church Fenton Lane, a pleasant residential setting within easy reach of local amenities and transport links. Ulleskelf benefits from a railway station providing direct services to York and Leeds, and is conveniently located for access to the A64, A1(M) and wider regional road network.

The site offers significant development potential, either for conversion to a unique residential dwelling, community use, or other commercial or leisure purposes (subject to planning). The internal layout provides open-plan accommodation with ancillary rooms suitable for reconfiguration or adaptation to suit future requirements.

This represents a rare opportunity to purchase a distinctive property with scope to create something truly unique in a desirable North Yorkshire village setting.
