Offers In The Region Of £450,000

Situated on Sydney Road in Cradley Heath, this characterful semi detached house occupies a road lined with notably attractive Victorian and Edwardian style family homes, known for their charm, character and original features. The property itself offers a fascinating piece of history, featuring a brick built air raid shelter constructed by Ernest Stevens, the "Great Stourbridge Benefactor". Accessed from the kitchen, the shelter retains its distinctive escape hatch and original features, offering endless potential to create a unique space for family use, whether as a wine cellar, snug, utility or something more imaginative.

The property itself offers a front garden, with access into the home via a gated open porch featuring stained glass and Minton tiling. The Minton tiling continues into the grand entrance hall, which provides access to the two largest reception rooms, with the rear reception room offering double opening doors to the garden, as well as access to the cellar. The breakfast room provides access to an additional reception room, which features a traditional annunciator panel. The modern kitchen has been recently fitted and provides access to the air raid shelter and WC. Upstairs are four well proportioned bedrooms and a family bathroom with both a bath and shower. The garden provides a blank canvas, ready to be transformed to suit modern family living.

With its spacious rooms, period character, fascinating history and prime location, this property presents an excellent opportunity for families or individuals looking for a home with genuine charm and plenty of potential. JH 08/09/2026
