Situated discreetly behind electric gates, Chataigne is a single-storey home of considerable architectural merit, located within the established residential setting of Frenchay. The property is characterised by its emphasis on space, light, and functional design, set within a village context that offers a blend of semi-rural living and convenient access to Bristol and Bath.

The entrance hall provides a measured and proportionate introduction to the interior, leading into the principal reception spaces. The sitting and dining area is arranged in a semi-open plan configuration, forming a central living environment that benefits from natural light and a clear spatial flow. Adjacent to this is a bespoke kitchen and breakfast room, designed with practicality in mind and oriented towards views of the garden. A separate utility room provides additional service space and direct external access. The principal bedroom suite offers a private retreat, comprising a dressing area and ensuite bathroom, with an emphasis on outlook and comfort. The second bedroom also includes an ensuite facility, while bedrooms three and four are served by a shared Jack and Jill bathroom. In addition, the property includes a further bathroom finished to a high standard, contributing to the overall functional completeness of the accommodation.

Supplementary spaces include a dedicated home office and a gymnasium, reflecting contemporary requirements for flexible working and domestic wellbeing.

Externally, the property is set within landscaped gardens designed to provide privacy and year-round usability.

The outdoor areas incorporate multiple seating and dining zones incorporating a sunken hot tub, structured planting and layered lighting, enabling use across different times of day and seasons. The garden is arranged to support both private enjoyment and social occupation with a strong emphasis on usability and low-maintenance design.

Parking and storage are well catered for through a combination of a below-ground double garage, a further double garage and additional driveway provision.

Frenchay itself contributes significantly to the appeal of the property, offering a village environment characterised by green spaces, riverside walks, and a sense of community while maintaining strong connectivity to Bristol and surrounding areas. This balance of rural character and urban accessibility is a defining feature of the location.
