SITUATION

The Coach House at Newtonhall has an idyllic rural setting at the foot of the Lammermuir Hills just 2.5 miles to the west of the popular village of Gifford in the beautiful East Lothian Countryside. Gifford is renowned for its picturesque houses, church, village green and 18th century Mercat (market) Cross. It has a church, several shops, two traditional hotels, a garage, large park and two golf courses - Gifford Golf Club is on the western edge of the village, while Castle Park Golf Club is to the south. The village boasts a vibrant Primary School whilst Secondary education is provided at Knox Academy, in Haddington which is located approximately 7 miles away and offers a wider range of services and facilities including shops, supermarkets, banks and leisure centre. East Lothian is famed for its spectacular landscape, encompassing the Lammermuir Hills, rolling farmland, and dramatic coastline. The area offers a wealth of leisure opportunities and a first class quality of life in an unspoiled setting.

The Coach House combines exceptional privacy with convenient accessibility being just 23 miles from the City of Edinburgh and its International Airport. Edinburgh is a renowned cultural centre, and the home of the National Museum of Scotland, the National Library of Scotland, and the Scottish National Gallery.[9] The city is also known for the Edinburgh International Festival and the Fringe, the latter being the world's largest annual international arts festival. Historic sites in Edinburgh include Edinburgh Castle, the Palace of Holyroodhouse, St Giles' Cathedral, Greyfriars Kirk, Canongate Kirk and the extensive Georgian New Town built in the 18th and 19th centuries. Edinburgh has several independent, fee-paying schools including Edinburgh Academy, Fettes College, George Heriot's School, George Watson's College, Merchiston Castle School, Stewart's Melville College and The Mary Erskine School.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION

The Coach House is a charming country house, occupying a private position with breathtaking views across East Lothian countryside towards the firth of Forth. Approached via a private drive and with a sunken cottage garden and stone outbuilding this idyllic spot resembles a scene from a Beatrix Potter tale. Constructed circa 1850, the house was originally two properties which have since been developed into one larger family home and whilst some modernisation and reconfiguration may now be beneficial the property has the potential to become an outstanding country residence.

The house is of traditional solid stone construction rendered externally under a slate covered roof with predominantly timber framed double glazed windows. The accommodation is arranged over two storeys, as detailed in the accompanying floor plans:

Ground Floor: Garden Room leading to entrance hall with cloakroom and stairs rising to first floor, access to; Sitting Room with wood burning stove; Kitchen with range of wall and floor units; Dining Room with wood burning stove and double doors to garden; Rear Hall with Cloakroom, access to Porch and stairs to first floor.

First Floor: South landing leading to four double bedrooms, including the principal bedroom; family bathroom, study and shower room. North landing to bedroom and shower room.

GARDENS

Enclosed gardens surround the house, predominantly laid to lawn with attractive borders, shrubs, hedging and woodland. Features include a cottage garden and pond to the north, a patio to the south which is a real sun trap and gravelled parking area for several vehicles to the front and side of the house. Part of the grounds were previously used for a grazing paddock and there is potential to revert some garden space back to create a pony paddock if desired.

OUTBUILDING

A short distance to the north of the Coach House is a standalone 'L shaped' traditional stone outbuilding (circa 89 sq.m GIA) currently used as a workshop and for storage but equally could be redeveloped to create a home office/games room or additional living or holiday accommodation (subject to obtaining the necessary consents).
