BRAE GARTH

The translation from Welsh is 'Hillside Enclosure' and it was never more appropriate, with the stunning location of this five-bedroom detached dwelling with dramatic views across the valley and onto the Peak District hills beyond, all part of the outstanding Green Belt.

The main dwelling was substantially extended in 1999 and enjoys a stunning living kitchen a spacious lounge with the principal bedroom suite directly above it (this in turn takes in the panorama over Green Belt). In total the main residence is circa 3000 square feet. The plot is circa 1.7 acres, including an orchard and incorporates two titles. Within the curtilage the former garages have, in 2016, been converted to a one-bedroom bungalow (consented as dependant relative accommodation), with a lounge/diner adjacent to the open plan kitchen and a large bathroom. It is in pristine condition and a balcony terrace enjoys a wonderful aesthetic landscape. Adjacent to this ancillary accommodation is a large garage and further storerooms, there are also additional outbuildings.

The site is approached by a private access next to a small paddock which is part of the estate road leading, ultimately, through an impressive, gated entrance.

The substantial accommodation in the main house comprises: Entrance porch, reception hallway, lounge, conservatory, living kitchen, dining room, utility, cloak room and coat room. Venturing upstairs you will find the aforementioned principle suite with large bedroom enjoying a beamed ceiling and balcony, dressing room (potentially bedroom five) and ensuite, three further bedrooms - two with ensembles and a further shower room.

Charlesworth is a charming village within the Peak District and enjoys local shopping and watering holes whilst Glossop town centre with its excellent bars, restaurants and retail park caters for so many needs. There are train services at Broadbottom and Glossop into Manchester whilst the impending bypass will make access to the motorway networks much more convenient.
