Once a local public house, this unique three-bedroom terraced property has been converted into an exceptionally spacious and well-presented home, offering far more accommodation than its traditional frontage might suggest.

The generous layout includes a bright living room, an unusually large kitchen and dining space, three well-proportioned bedrooms and a substantial cellar. Outside, the property continues to impress with a particularly long rear garden divided into separate seating, low-maintenance and lawned areas.

Situated within easy reach of Swadlincote town centre, this characterful home combines space, convenience and an interesting history, making it an excellent option for downsizers, first-time buyers or anyone looking for something a little different.

Living Room

The front door opens directly into a bright and generously proportioned living room, with a broad front-facing window allowing plenty of natural light into the space.

There is ample room for substantial seating and additional furniture, while timber-effect flooring and neutral decoration create a clean and comfortable finish. Glazed double doors connect the room with the kitchen and dining area beyond.

Kitchen/Diner

One of the property's standout features is its impressively spacious kitchen and dining arrangement—something rarely found within a traditional terraced home.

The dining section provides plenty of room for a full-sized dining table and additional furniture, making it equally suited to everyday family life and entertaining. Timber-effect flooring, painted wall panelling and contrasting natural timber doors add character to the space.

The kitchen is fitted with a range of wall and base units, work surfaces, a sink and drainer, an integrated oven and hob, and spaces for several under-counter appliances. A wide window brings natural light into the room, while a rear door provides direct access to the garden.

A useful pantry-style storage area provides further space for food, appliances and household items.

Cellar

Accessed from the ground floor, the substantial cellar provides an excellent amount of additional storage. It is currently arranged as a practical and usable space with lighting and finished flooring, making it suitable for general storage, hobbies or use as a workshop area.

First-Floor Landing

The landing provides access to all three bedrooms and the family bathroom.

Bedroom One

A particularly generous double bedroom positioned at the front of the property. The room offers ample space for a large bed, wardrobes and additional bedroom furniture, with a front-facing window providing plenty of natural light.

Bedroom Two

A further well-proportioned double bedroom overlooking the rear garden. Presented in neutral tones, the room provides excellent space for bedroom furniture and benefits from useful built-in storage.

Bedroom Three

The third bedroom is a versatile room that would work equally well as a child's bedroom, nursery, home office or dressing room.

Bathroom

The first-floor bathroom is fitted with a white suite comprising a corner bath, wash basin and WC. Part-tiled walls, a heated towel rail and an obscure-glazed window complete the room.

Outside

The garden is considerably larger than and is divided into several distinct areas. Immediately behind the house is a low-maintenance section with paving, decorative stone, established planting and a useful external store.

A gate leads into the main garden, which is predominantly laid to lawn and bordered by mature shrubs and trees. A timber garden building sits towards the far end, providing additional storage or potential hobby space.

The overall garden offers plenty of room for outdoor seating, children's play equipment and further landscaping, while the established boundaries provide a good degree of privacy.
