Property Description

The home is accessed via a right of way over a private road, adding to the sense of seclusion and rural appeal. Approached through the surrounding grounds, the property immediately showcases its farmhouse origins and enjoys a tranquil setting rarely found.

A PVC double glazed entrance door opens into an expansive open-plan kitchen, living, and dining space laid with attractive quarry tiled flooring. Rich in character, this welcoming room centres around a prominent inglenook-style fireplace housing a multi-fuel burning stove, creating a warm and atmospheric focal point. The kitchen itself is fitted with traditional timber cabinetry complemented by patterned tiled splashbacks, while dual sinks with twin draining boards add practicality and further rustic charm. There is space for a range-style cooker, and multiple windows allow natural light to flood into the space throughout the day. While perfectly functional, the property offers clear potential for a purchaser to modernise and further enhance the accommodation to suit their own style and requirements.

Leading from the kitchen dining space is a generously proportioned lounge, providing an additional reception room full of warmth and character. Decorative skirting boards and a feature fireplace add personality, while dual-aspect windows ensure a bright feel throughout. Sliding doors frame delightful views over the surrounding farmland and create a lovely connection to the outdoors.

Beyond the kitchen, an internal hallway houses the staircase rising to the first floor, alongside a useful under-stairs storage cupboard which also accommodates the central heating boiler.

The ground floor bathroom continues the property's traditional feel, fitted with parquet-style flooring, a classic cast iron bath, separate shower cubicle, WC, and hand basin. Again, this space offers functionality while presenting scope for future cosmetic updating if desired.

What was formerly the original front entrance has now been repurposed into a practical additional storage space laid with quarry tiled flooring. This versatile area could potentially be adapted into a snug, boot room, hobby space, or additional reception room, subject to a purchaser's needs.

The first-floor accommodation is accessed via a naturally bright landing illuminated by a landing window. Two well-sized bedrooms are positioned off the initial section of the landing, both capable of comfortably accommodating either single or double beds with accompanying furniture.

There are then two further spacious double bedrooms positioned to the front of the property, both enjoying beautiful elevated views across the surrounding open farmland. These rooms offer excellent proportions with ample space for freestanding furniture, while exposed character and rural outlooks further add to the property's appeal.

A first-floor WC fitted with a wash hand basin and useful storage beneath conveniently serves the upstairs accommodation.

Externally, the grounds are a significant feature of the property, extending to approximately 1.154 acres overall, including a parcel of land estimated at around 0.55 acres. The outdoor space offers fantastic potential for gardening enthusiasts, smallholding aspirations, or simply enjoying the surrounding countryside setting. There are also two small outbuildings within the grounds, both best suited for general storage purposes.

Further practical features include a septic tank drainage system, reinforcing the home's rural setting and farmhouse heritage.

This charming former farmhouse offers an increasingly rare opportunity to acquire a character-filled countryside home with generous land, extensive potential, and a peaceful setting —ideal for buyers looking to create a truly special rural retreat over time.
