

Fleeming Road, Walthamstow, London

Situated on the highly sought-after Fleeming Road within the popular Lloyd Park neighbourhood, this attractive ground floor two-bedroom Warner flat offers spacious accommodation, period charm, and excellent potential for modern family living.

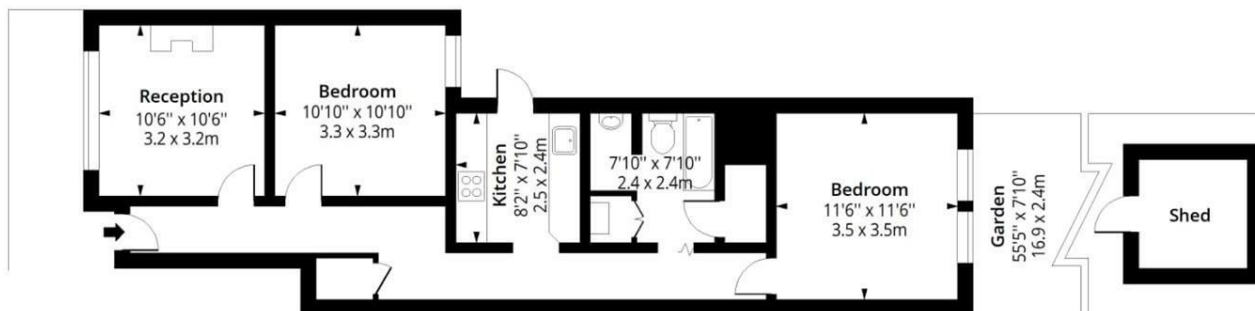

Occupying the ground floor of a classic Warner-built property, the flat benefits from the generous room proportions and characterful features for which these homes are renowned. The accommodation comprises a bright and welcoming reception room, two well-proportioned bedrooms, a fitted kitchen, and a family bathroom, all arranged across a practical and versatile layout. Large windows throughout provide excellent natural light, while high ceilings and original architectural details enhance the sense of space and character.

The property offers an ideal balance of comfort and functionality, making it well suited to first-time buyers, professional couples, young families, or those seeking to downsize without compromising on living space. The flexible layout provides scope for home working, guest accommodation, or additional storage, depending on individual requirements.

Warner flats remain some of Walthamstow's most desirable period homes, appreciated for their solid construction, attractive brick façades, and distinctive Victorian and Edwardian architectural features. Properties of this style rarely remain available for long due to their enduring appeal and strong demand within the local market.
