A deceptively spacious and significantly extended property, originally a detached bungalow, now offering versatile and well-proportioned accommodation across multiple levels.

From the front the property appears modest, however internally it opens up to provide a substantial amount of living space. The main level features a generous open-plan kitchen, dining and sitting area, creating a fantastic hub of the home, along with a well-sized bathroom and three bedrooms, offering flexible living arrangements.

The lower ground floor adds even more versatility, with a large living space, additional office area and useful storage, making it ideal for a range of uses including working from home, entertaining or additional family space.

Externally, the property benefits from off road parking to the front and a generously sized rear garden, providing plenty of outdoor space.

Further benefitting from an air source heating system, this is an energy-conscious home with modern efficiency in mind.

Located in a popular residential area with good access to local amenities, schools and transport links, this is a unique opportunity to acquire a property that offers far more than first meets the eye.
