Beautifully blending elegant period architecture with stylish contemporary interiors, the property offers generously proportioned accommodation throughout, a private enclosed courtyard garden, allocated parking within the central courtyard and the rare advantage of a double garage complete with power and lighting.

Originally serving as the estate's mews and stable buildings, the development has been sympathetically converted into an exclusive collection of luxury homes arranged around beautifully maintained communal gardens, creating a unique setting that effortlessly combines history, character and modern convenience.

Ground Floor

A welcoming entrance hallway immediately sets the tone for the quality found throughout the home, featuring attractive wall panelling, high ceilings and an impressive staircase rising to the first floor. Doors lead to the principal reception rooms, guest cloakroom and kitchen.

The elegant living room is a superb dual-aspect reception space, flooded with natural light from a beautiful bay window overlooking the communal courtyard gardens. Equally impressive is the formal dining room, providing an ideal setting for entertaining or family dining. Rich in character, the room also enjoys its own feature fireplace with inset log burner together with the generous proportions synonymous with properties of this calibre.

The stylishly refitted kitchen has been designed with both practicality and entertaining in mind, offering a comprehensive range of contemporary gloss units complemented by extensive work surfaces and a breakfast bar. Integrated appliances include double ovens, microwave, induction hob and dishwasher, with further space for an American-style fridge freezer. A courtesy door provides direct access to the private courtyard garden.

Completing the ground floor is a beautifully appointed guest cloakroom/WC.

Location

Rangemore Mews forms part of the historic Grade II Listed Rangemore Hall Estate, commissioned by the Bass brewing family during the nineteenth century before being extensively remodelled by Lord Burton around the turn of the twentieth century. Following its later use as Needwood School, the estate was carefully converted into an exclusive collection of luxury homes, with the former mews buildings transformed into the highly sought-after residences enjoyed today.

Surrounded by picturesque Staffordshire countryside, Rangemore offers the perfect balance of rural living and everyday convenience. Burton upon Trent, Barton-under-Needwood and Derby are all within easy reach, while the nearby A38 provides excellent connections to Birmingham, the M6 Toll and the wider motorway network. The area is also particularly well regarded for schooling, lying within easy reach of John Taylor High School, Repton School and several other highly regarded independent and state schools.
