Just a short walk from the centre of Winkleigh, this is a proper Devon cottage. Thatched, full of character and set in a village that still has a real buzz about it, with a pub, shop, excellent butcher, cafes and miles of walks all on hand.

The cottage itself has been really well looked after and feels easy to live in. The living and dining space is cosy without being cramped, with a wood burner at its heart, and the kitchen sits neatly to the rear. There's a nice balance here between character and practicality.

Upstairs, there are two good double bedrooms and a clean, simple bathroom. Heating has been sensibly upgraded too, with modern electric systems alongside the wood burner, so it works just as well for everyday use as it would for a second home.

Outside, there's a south west facing courtyard garden, enclosed and easy to manage, ideal for sitting out without a lot of upkeep.

The thatch has also been well maintained, with works carried out in recent years, so that side of things is already taken care of. It's being sold with no onward chain, and would suit a range of buyers, whether as a full time home, a weekend place or even a holiday let.
