Summary of Accommodation

ABOUT THE PROPERTY

Believed to date back to the early 19th Century, Ty Isaf is a large residence surrounded by its own grounds offering peace and tranquillity. Yet, just a stroll away from the local primary school, making it an ideal family home.

From the front door, the main entrance hallway connects to a utility space with WC. The gas-combi boiler is located here. The hallway continues through into the main living accommodation offering two large reception rooms. The larger reception room has a traditional stone fireplace with wood burning stove, shelving to one side of the chimney breast nook, and to the other, a staircase which leads to the largest bedroom. This room enjoys a dual aspect, with exposed ceiling beams, and links to a useful study - with its own access to the rear of the property. Located just off from the dining room, whereby the main staircase to the landing sits, is a sunny conservatory, offering elevated views to the south gardens, with also access out to the rear garden. The kitchen-breakfast room has been fitted with a range of traditional, solid shaker-style wall and base units with complementary work surfaces. With exposed ceiling beams, and quality pine flooring, this room has the most wonderful views over the grounds and further across the mountain.

To the first floor, there are four sizeable bedrooms. The largest bedroom as the benefit of its own staircase from the ground floor, an en-suite bathroom and walk-through dressing area. The other three bedrooms share use of the 3-piece family shower room.
