SHORE COTTAGE

Shore Cottage is a detached Grade II listed Tudor timber-framed home, quietly positioned along Shore Lane in the village of Cressage near Shrewsbury. Once the original laundry to the neighbouring manor house, the property blends historic character with thoughtfully designed living spaces, beautifully arranged gardens and a remarkably light, versatile atmosphere throughout.

SELLER INSIGHT

“ We viewed around 30 properties before Shore Cottage, but the moment we walked through the door, we knew. Sometimes you simply feel that a house is yours. We have always loved period homes, so the beams, wooden floors and character immediately spoke to us, but what truly stood out was the quality, light and feeling of space. It has the perfect balance of being peaceful and rural without ever feeling isolated.

The house changes beautifully with the seasons. In winter it feels warm and cocooning with the fires lit, while in summer everything opens out into the garden. We love the rhythm of living here, morning coffee at the back of the house, afternoons on the terrace and evenings around the fire pit. It has also been ideal for working from home because, despite the countryside setting, the connectivity is excellent, with strong wifi, reliable phone signal and easy access to transport links when travelling further afield. Above all, we love that you can walk straight from the door into the countryside or down towards the River Severn. It is a house that encourages you to slow down and truly enjoy where you live.”

THE GROUND FLOOR

The ground floor unfolds with a natural sense of rhythm, where each room offers its own distinct atmosphere while remaining effortlessly connected. At the heart of the house is a beautifully light sitting room with French doors opening onto the garden, creating an easy flow between indoors and out. A more intimate dining room, complete with log burner, provides a wonderfully atmospheric setting for entertaining, while the snug offers a cosy retreat and practical work-from-home space. The kitchen is bright and welcoming, positioned to enjoy views across the morning garden, and throughout the ground floor exposed beams, wooden floors and original Tudor details bring warmth, texture and character.

THE FIRST FLOOR

The first floor continues the home's sense of warmth and individuality, with each room shaped by the character of the original Tudor architecture. The principal bedroom is particularly atmospheric, framed by exposed beams and pitched ceilings that create a calm, cocooning retreat, while views from the windows draw the surrounding greenery into the space. Two further bedrooms offer flexibility for guests, family or additional workspace, complemented by well-appointed bathrooms that blend comfortably with the home's period character. Throughout the first floor, natural light, timber detailing and carefully preserved features create a feeling that is both restful and quietly timeless.

STEP OUTSIDE

Set within beautifully arranged gardens that unfold into a series of distinct outdoor spaces, Shore Cottage offers a lifestyle shaped by light and seasonality. Morning coffee can be enjoyed on the terrace beside the kitchen, while the south-facing patio to the front of the house provides the perfect setting for evening sun-downer drinks as the light softens across the garden. A fire pit gathering space creates a natural focal point for relaxed entertaining, while the surrounding countryside and nearby River Severn bring a quiet sense of connection to the landscape. A detached double garage adds further practicality, while the gardens themselves feel like a natural extension of the house, designed to be enjoyed throughout the changing seasons.
