A Landmark Cornish Home with Panoramic Views, Income Potential and Endless Possibilities

A remarkable detached former mine captain's residence, set in an elevated position on Beacon Terrace with breathtaking views across Camborne, surrounding countryside and towards the distant coastline.

This substantial five-bedroom period home offers approximately 253.8 sq m across the property and associated buildings, together with a self-contained one-bedroom annexe, detached workshop, garden store and extensive private parking.

Inside, vast ceiling heights, beautifully proportioned rooms, a wide turning staircase, ornate cornicing, ceiling roses, fireplaces, stained-glass windows and tiled floors showcase the home's heritage. Large double-glazed sash-style windows frame the exceptional outlook.

The accommodation includes an elegant living room with wood-burning stove, characterful dining room, kitchen, utility room and large glazed sunroom opening onto the terrace and gardens. Upstairs are five adaptable bedrooms, one with en-suite facilities, a dedicated office and a striking family bathroom with freestanding bath, walk-in shower and decorative stained glass.

The annexe has its own living room, bedroom, kitchen, bathroom and sunroom. Currently let on a long-term tenancy and previously used as holiday accommodation, it is ideal for income, multigenerational living, guests or home working.

Outside, a broad alfresco terrace enjoys the evening sun, with steps leading to a substantial lawned garden enclosed by stone walls and mature planting. Panoramic countryside and coastal views are enjoyed from the garden and many rooms. A large driveway provides parking for numerous vehicles, while the workshop and stores offer excellent practical space.

The property can remain as it is, or the annexe could be reintegrated to create one substantial family home with three reception rooms, additional bedrooms or an open-plan kitchen, dining and living space
