Castletown

Lorne House

- Historic six-acre private estate, once the residence of the Governor of the Isle of Man
- Prime position within the heart of Castletown, the island's ancient capital
- Mature grounds featuring orchards, paddocks, and fully restored walled gardens
- Peaceful outlook toward the medieval profile of Castle Rushen
- Eight thoughtfully renewed bedrooms and five bathrooms
- Interiors by Von Westenholz: timeless, refined, and exceptionally comfortable
- Moments from the beach, local dining, golf, and the airport
- A rare and distinguished opportunity to own an important island estate

Set within six acres of private, walled grounds in the heart of Castletown, this remarkable estate once served as the residence of the Governor of the Isle of Man. Today, its orchards, paddocks, and beautifully restored walled gardens offer a sense of calm and seclusion, framed by gentle views toward the medieval silhouette of Castle Rushen.

Inside, eight bedrooms and five bathrooms have been elegantly renewed, with interiors by Von Westenholz bringing a timeless and refined warmth to every space. Just moments from the beach, dining, golf, and the airport, the property balances tranquillity with convenience. This is a rare opportunity to own one of the island's most significant and beautifully restored homes.
