Behind its handsome painted brick façade, this impressive Victorian home has been sensitively extended and meticulously improved to create a light-filled family house of approximately 1,276 sqft arranged over three floors.

Period character sits comfortably alongside modern living. Original proportions, fireplaces and sash-style windows combine with a striking rear extension, creating generous reception space that flows naturally into the kitchen and breakfast room. The result is a home equally suited to everyday family life and entertaining.

The welcoming entrance hall leads through to an elegant sitting room with a feature fireplace, opening into a spacious dining room. Together, these rooms provide flexible open-plan living while retaining a sense of individual character.

To the rear, the extended kitchen and breakfast room is flooded with natural light from a large roof lantern and wide glazing overlooking the garden. Thoughtfully designed with painted cabinetry, timber worktops and ample preparation space, it offers an informal dining area with direct access onto the patio, creating an effortless connection between house and garden.

The first floor provides two well-proportioned bedrooms and third study/cot room, together with a beautifully appointed contemporary shower room finished with large-format porcelain tiling, walk-in rainfall shower and quality sanitaryware.

Occupying the entire second floor, the principal bedroom enjoys generous proportions, useful eaves storage and the benefit of a ensuite bathroom.

Outside, the enclosed rear garden has been designed for low-maintenance enjoyment, mostly laid to lawn, with attractive patios providing an ideal setting for outdoor dining and entertaining, framed by mature planting and established trees which create a surprisingly private backdrop.
