Toll House

Scalthwaiterigg, Kendal

'Toll House' is a most attractive three-bedroom period property thought to be built around 1805. The ground floor has an open plan feel but remains nice and cosy with a lovely wood burning stove as the focal point in the lounge. Situated in an idyllic setting this unique home has the perfect balance of semi-rural living but only a few minutes from the bustling market town of Kendal. To the outside of the property is off road parking, garden and lawn areas, to the rear is a little Bothy which is currently used as a home office. With far reaching panoramic views of the Lakeland Fells early viewing is highly recommended! No chain.
