SITUATION

Sentry Wood lies in a rural part of North Devon, approximately 1.7 miles to the south-west of the village of Swlimbridge and 2 miles south of the village of Landkey. Barnstaple lies 4 miles to the north and the beaches at Instow, Saunton, Croyde and Putsborough and the Exmoor National Park are all within easy reach.

DESCRIPTION

Sentry Wood forms part of a larger wood and extends in total to 2.28 acres (0.92 hectares), with views over open farm land to the north and west.

The tree species include Japanese larch, Douglas fir, birch, cherry and ash and there is an avenue of mature beech trees above an old cart track. The current owners have improved and actively managed the wood during their ownership including creating an area for parking vehicles.

There is a forestry building which has been constructed using Douglas fir and larch from the wood, which has a wonderfully rustic appearance, built using traditional methods with a single internal space and a veranda.

There are a number of paths through the various sections of the wood to allow access for management and walking.
