The Home -

Set within a modern development on Elderfield Road, this bright one-bedroom apartment offers a calm and well-balanced living space where natural light and thoughtful layout create a home that feels both practical and inviting. Positioned on the first floor, the apartment benefits from dual-aspect windows, allowing light to move through the space throughout the day. The living area enjoys warm west-facing light, while the bedroom faces south, creating a bright and comfortable environment across the home.

With Chatsworth Road on your doorstep, there are plenty of options for restaurants, cafes and shops, plus both Homerton and Clapton overground stations are a short walk away providing easy access to the city and beyond.

The Indoors

Stepping through the front door, the hallway leads into the apartment with the bedroom to your left and the bathroom to your right.

The bedroom is a comfortable double room, filled with soft southern light through its window. The proportions allow space for a double bed and additional furniture, creating a calm and restful space that feels tucked away from the main living area. Opposite sits the bathroom, finished in a clean and contemporary style. Soft neutral tiling keeps the room bright, while patterned floor tiles add a subtle touch of design, bringing character to the space while maintaining a calm and understated feel.

Moving further into the apartment, the home opens into the open-plan kitchen/living and dining space, which forms the heart of the flat. Large dual-aspect windows allow natural light to move beautifully across the room. The west-facing window fills the living space with warm afternoon and evening light, while the additional window keeps the space bright and airy throughout the day. The living area comfortably accommodates a sofa and seating area, with space for a dining table beside the window. The kitchen sits neatly along one side of the room, integrated into the open-plan layout so the space remains sociable and connected — ideal for both everyday living and relaxed entertaining.
