Corsham in Wiltshire offers the charm of a historic market town with handsome stone buildings, a traditional high street and a friendly, village-like atmosphere, while still having good links to nearby Bath and the wider Cotswolds. Living here means enjoying a relaxed pace of life, independent shops and cafes, and green countryside on the doorstep, making it easy to combine everyday convenience with easy access to walks and scenic drives. There is plenty to do in and around the town: residents can visit Corsham Court and its parkland, explore art, theatre and film at The Pound arts centre, browse regular craft and creative markets, or use the leisure facilities at Springfield Community Campus. Nearby attractions such as the city of Bath, the picturesque villages of Lacock and Castle Combe, and major Wiltshire landmarks like Stonehenge and Avebury add even more options for day trips, culture, and outdoor activities within easy travelling distance
